PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Now is the time to prepare for the annual NCNA convention to be held July 26 through 28 at the Quality Inn Mission Valley in Raleigh. Ted Hendrick will handle the bourse, and I have appointed Winborne Springs chairman of the exhibits committee and Fred Simpson chairman of the education committee. These gentlemen will need YOUR help in the weeks and months ahead, make your contribution when they call on you. No organization can operate on the labors of just a few.

You can help by encouraging the members of your local clubs to join NCNA and to participate in the NCNA convention, the largest coin show in the state of North Carolina each year.

Donald G. Sharpe

CALL FOR NOMINATIONS

All NCNA members can participate in their organization by nominating members for elective office. The Association's bylaws require "nomination to be forwarded to the Secretary 60 days before the opening date of the Annual Convention". With the Convention coming in July the deadline for nominations reaching the Secretary at Box 20653, Greensboro, NC 27420 is 27 May. ACT NOW!

The offices to be filled and their current holders are:

|                     |                    |
|---------------------|--------------------|
| President           | Don Sharpe         |
| 1st Vice President  | James Little       |
| 2nd Vice President  | Winborne Springs   |
| Secretary-Treasurer | Russell Southworth |
| Director            | Forrest M. Michael |
|                     | David D. Porter    |
|                     | William J. Wright  |

In addition the following awards are presented by NCNA at each convention. Send your nominations for these awards to the secretary-treasurer now.

H. Fred Simpson award for the outstanding numismatist of the year
Jimmy Jackson award for the outstanding junior numismatist
Bason award for contributions to the NCNA JOURNAL

Donald G. Sharpe

RALEIGH & ROANOKE

From March 8 through June 6, 1985 the North Carolina Museum of History will host an exhibit honoring the 400th anniversary of the Roanoke voyages of 1584 through 1587. These voyages sponsored by Sir Walter Raleigh, who stayed safe in Britain, were the first attempts to plant British colonies in the New World. Though unsuccessful, these ventures gave England its first information about America.

The exhibit will bring together 157 artifacts and documents of the era. Along with numerous maps and drawings showing the people and natural history of the New World there will be a number of coins and medals. The medals include contemporary portraits of Elizabeth and her Spanish protagonists, Charles V and Philip II. Did her medal designers do any better by Queen Bess than her coin designers?

For the numismatist the high point of the exhibit will be coins of the period. . . . The English coins in the exhibit include a milled six pence of 1562, the first English use of machine struck coinage. Also included is a portcullis dollar of 1600. This coin was the first attempt of the British to make a trade coin to compete in world trade with the Spanish eight reals.

A hammered  $1/5$  ducaton of the Spanish Netherlands shows Philip II. Philip is also represented by a piece of eight recovered from the wreck of a galleon from the Spanish Armada. The threat of this fleet prevented Raleigh from sending supplies to what became known as his Lost Colony and thus to our cover illustration: the 1937 commemorative half dollar of the United States showing Virginia Dare, the granddaughter of John White and the first child of English decent born in America. This coin is not part of the current exhibit.

Many of the items on display have never been out of England before and have been on display at the British Museum for the last year. Having seen them there I can assure you that they are a most impressive exhibit.

JOHN J. PITTMAN RECEIVES NUMISMATIC AMBASSADOR AWARD

Clifford Mischler of Krause Publications presented a Numismatic Ambassador Award to John J. Pittman of North Carolina by way of Rochester, N.Y. at the convention of Florida United Numismatists in Orlando on January 5, 1985. John is the 121st person and the fourth North Carolinian to receive the award since it was established in 1974 by the Iola, Wisconsin firm.

In presenting the award Mischler noted Pittman's long involvement in the hobby, citing him as a "Collector's Collector" and calling him one of those who "inspires and motivates others in the hobby, causing the fruits to materialize through contributions of unending effort extended in the interest of building and improving."

John's interests are wide ranging: English portcullis dollars, Bechtler gold, and contemporary Chinese coinage are all coins that he owns and has recently displayed. And he'll gladly tell you all about each one.

When the Numismatic Ambassador program was conceived, the qualities of such a person were to include devotion, sincerity, patience, perseverance and an ability to get things done. "Though not all these qualities were needed to achieve the award, few were expected to qualify on the basis of all of them." Mischler said.

John has made his contributions to the hobby over a long and active career. A native of Rocky Mount, North Carolina, he began collecting when he found a shield nickel in change on his paper route in the 1920's. He received a degree in chemical engineering from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. After going to work for Eastman Kodak, he was introduced to serious numismatics when he bought a new car from a former president of the ANA.

He became active in numismatic organizations over forty years ago and has served as president of the Rochester Numismatic Association, Middle Atlantic Numismatic Association, the Empire State Numismatic Association, the American Numismatic Association, and the Canadian Numismatic Association. He has served on the ANA Board of Governors for most of the period from 1959 to the present, but is retiring this year. During that time he has served on and chaired many of the committees that do so much of any organization's work. He is an honorary life member of NCNA.

One of his recent trips resulted in his being the first collector from the West to tour the Shanghai mint of the People's Republic of China.

Been on the block for 32 years. Saw some questionable hobby programs come down from Washington in that time. Got involved with all of them. Knew from experience what to do — how to go about changing minds and policies.

Victories for the hobby were sweet. There are more to come. Stick with us. Support us. Now more than ever, we're ready to serve your interests.
